David Thompson was an explorer and the first to map this area; Lewis and Clark used his maps during their Expedition. To honor Thompson's accomplishments, a monument marked by a large granite globe atop a rectangular granite base now stands northwest of Karlsruhe. To reach this remote location using the minimum amount of gravel roads: Go west from Hwy 14 on 48th St NE (there is a sign there pointing to Karlsruhe). Eight miles down this paved road is an intersection where another sign points left to Karlsruhe but at this point you need to turn right onto a gravel road. In less than a mile this road (49th Ave or CR 2536) will curve left and a sign will indicate the monument is six more miles. The monument will be on the left a short distance off the gravel road, just as it starts to descend into the Souris River valley. Take a photo which shows the large granite globe.
